

An Amigurumi Pattern by Aphra Dowell-Jones of The Clumsy Unicorn

Skill level

I believe that everyone can crochet this pattern, whether they are new to crocheting or have been crocheting for years! There are plenty of step-by-step photos to help you along the way.

The techniques that you will need to know in order to follow this pattern are:

- Magic circle
- Single crochet
- Single crochet into the back loop
- Single crochet increase
- Single crochet invisible decrease
- Chain stitch
- Single crochet into a chain
- Double crochet
- Popcorn stitch
- Invisible crochet edge finish
- Neat amigurumi finish
- Attaching crocheted pieces

Construction

Petra the Pterodactyl is worked in continuous spiral rounds, in the traditional amigurumi way.

It may help you to keep track of your position if you use a stitch marker on the first or last stitch of each round, moving it to each new round as your Pterodactyl grows in size

In the pattern I've noted the positions where I place the eyes. If you want your Pterodactyl to look as close as possible to mine then make sure to mark these positions as you crochet. But if you want to experiment then feel free, I'd love to see your version!

Size & Gauge

25 cm (10 in) tall when standing and 18 cm (7 in) when sitting if made using the recommended yarn & gauge

Gauge: 3.5 cm (1.5 in) across rounds 1-5

sc · single crochet

sc tbl • single crochet in the back loops only

inc • increase

dec · invisible decrease

dc • double crochet

3dcpc • 3 double crochet popcorn stitch

ch • chain stitch

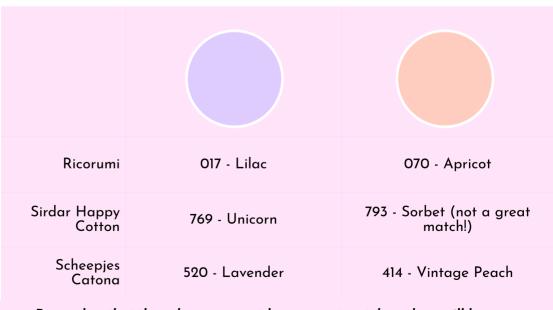

* * rep x ... • repeat the instructions between the stars the indicated number of times

(number) • number of stitches in the round

Materials:

- 4 balls of Ricorumi yarn in shade 017 Lilac (DK weight, 100% cotton, 25g/58 metres)
- 1 ball of Ricorumi in shade 070 Apricot
- 2.5 mm crochet hook (I use the Clover amour hooks they're super light with a comfortable handle, plus they come in lovely colours!)
- Soft toy stuffing (I use sheepswool cluster fill which is lovely and soft as well as being environmentally friendly!)
- A pair of 10mm safety eyes
- Yarn needle/tapestry needle (I find size 20 works best)

Alternative yarn options:

Remember that the colours may not be an exact match so there will be some differences if using anything other than Ricorumi!

Notes:

- Make sure you crochet fairly tightly for all pieces of this pattern this stops the stuffing from showing through the stitches later on.
- If you normally crochet fairly loosely consider using a slightly smaller hook instead this will keep your stitches tight even with a looser tension.
- You can of course use whatever yarn you want to for your Pterodactyl but make sure you use a crochet hook a size or two smaller than recommended on the yarn. The final appearance of your Pterodactyl will of course change depending on the yarn you use!
- Petra the Pterodactyl is crocheted in a continuous spiral, as is typical of amigurumi. Using a stitch marker on the first or last stitch of each round may help you with counting rounds and stitches.
- You may sell items that you have made using this pattern in a small quantity.
 Crediting or tagging me as the designer in this situation is hugely appreciated!
- And finally...

33 sc 26

34 sc 7, dec, sc 4 rep x 2 (24)

At this point stuff the body up to the current point [image 27]

35-49 (15 rounds) sc 24 - Mark stitches 6 and 23 of the final round round.

Now stuff the neck firmly to avoid it being too floppy, then cut the yarn, leaving a short tail and pull through the final stitch. Finish off neatly with an invisible crochet edge finish before securing the yarn and cutting off any excess.

Joining - Step 1
                   Place the head and body together, matching up the marked stitches. [images 2-3]
Joining - Step 2
                   Take a length of yarn around 30cm long and use it to sew the head to the body, starting and ending in the marked stitches
                   [images 4-7]
Joining - Step 3
                   You now have a new round of 42 stitches around both the head and body (including the marked stitches)
                   Now you can continue to crochet around this new round, picking up from your last stitch of Round 22 of the head!

Crocheting the Line Down the Middle of the Wings

- 1. Cut a long strand of yarn in your main colour.
- 2. Slipknot a loop into the end of this yarn and hold it over the point at the top of your wing, with the loop over the middle gap and the yarn at the back.
- 3. Insert your hook through the loop as well as the middle space.
- 4. Draw the yarn through to the front of the loop. This is a surface slip stitch. Make sure to keep the slip stitches loose so that they don't pull the wing out of shape.
- 5. Repeat steps 2 & 3 for each of the middle spaces until you get to the bottom of the wing.
- 6. Slip stitch into the point that you created at the bottom of the wing.
- 7. Cut the yarn and draw through the final stitch.
- 8. Secure the yarn through a few stitches and cut off any excess.

NOTE: You can use a tapestry needle and chain stitch to get the same effect if you find this technique a little tricky!

Attaching Petra the Pterodactyl's Wings

- 1. Thread the yarn end from your wing onto a tapestry needle.
- 2. Pin the wing into place with the right side facing forwards the yarn end will be at the bottom of the body on your Pterodactyl's right wing and at the end of the arm on your Pterodactyl's left wing.
- 3. Sew down into one of the stitches on your Pterodactyl just underneath the outer corner of the wing, and out of a neighbouring stitch, following the wing edge.
- 4. Sew through a stitch at the edge of the wing. Sew down through the same stitch on your Pterodactyl that you sewed out of in step 3, and out again through a neighbouring stitch, following the wing edge.
- 5. Repeat step 4 until you have completely sewn up to the top point of the wing.
- 6. Continue repeating steps 4 down the other edge of the wing.
- 7. Secure the yarn through a few stitches and cut off any excess.
- 8. Repeat for the second wing.
